Just Like Air*

Main Point: Even though you can't see God, He is real and has great power (Romans 1:20).

Preparation: You'll need a few uninflated balloons.

Suggested Age: Preschool/Elementary
Estimated Time: 10-15 minutes

Step One:

Gather your children and ask them, “How could God be real if we can't see Him?” After listening to their responses, ask, “Is there anything else we know is real but we can't see?” If no one suggests it, you or your spouse can suggest “air.”

Step Two:

Pull out a balloon and inflate it, but don’t tie off the end. Say, “Air is real enough to expand this balloon. I bet air has power too.” Release the balloon and let it fly around the room. Spend the next ten minutes helping your kids blow up the balloons and letting them fly around the house. Make a competition out of it and see who can make their balloon fly the farthest.

Step Three:

After you've “flown” the balloons for a while, introduce this little slogan, “Just like air, God is there!” Take a moment to read Romans 1:20 and explain that although we can't see God, we know He is real because we can see what He has made and the power He has in the world. Remind them, “God is real and has power, even though we can't see Him.”
